

Vecoplan AG strengthens its Executive Board

New CFO to drive international expansion

On 1 December, Vecoplan AG appointed Eric Jaschke as its new Chief Financial Officer (CFO). With his many years of international experience in finance, strategy and corporate management, he will take on an important role in the internationally active mechanical engineering company.

“Vecoplan combines technological strength with an international focus. This is a combination that particularly appeals to me. I am very much looking forward to working with the team to drive further growth and actively supporting the strategic development of the company,” says Eric Jaschke. The 52-year-old is a qualified accountant who studied business administration. He has held positions of responsibility in project-related plant engineering and technology-oriented industries in both Europe and Australia, where he worked as CFO for a global mechanical engineering company for a long time. At Vecoplan, he now intends to support the consistent further development of international markets.

CEO Werner Berens views the new appointment as a positive sign for Vecoplan AG's future: “With Eric Jaschke, we are gaining a leader who is an excellent fit for us both professionally and strategically. His international experience and understanding of complex project structures will support our growth strategy.” This new appointment further signals Vecoplan AG's commitment to strengthening its organisation and meeting the growing demands of the international mechanical engineering sector.
